Senate. Sin: In response to the resolution passed Sin: In response to the resolution passed by the Scnate on the 7th instant and transmitted to the Commissioners by the Secretary of the Senate under that date, the Commissioners beg leave to transmit to the Senate the following reply:

The resolution is in these words:

"Resolved, That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia be directed to report to the Senate the assessed market value of the capital stock of all corporations within the District of Columbia, assessed in accordance with existing laws for tions within the District of Columbia, assessed in accordance with existing laws for personal taxation, the amount of tax paid by such corporations, and for any facts or information within their knowledge tending to show any evasion of the law on the part of any of said corporations."

And it is presumed that its intent is to obtain information upon which tegislation may be lasted, if needed.

The annexed schedule, prepared by the Assessor of the District of Columbia, gives in detail the information asked for by the resolution concerning the assessed market value of the capital stock of all corporations in the District assessed under the existing provisions of law governing such matters and the amount of tax paid by such corporations.

"The Commissioners have no personal knewledge as to the correctness of the assessments contained in the schedule referred to, except in the case of the Ecening Star Newspaper Company, as will be made to appear by the accompanying documents, for the reason that such assessments under the law are made by the assessor alone. But with respect to the Ecening Star Newspaper Company the Commissioners have received information as to the assessment made of its personal property and the tax paid by it, which, appearing to show an evasion of law, has led to inquiries resulting in the correspondence appended to and made part of the report.

"Very Respectfully,"

The Assessor replied to this as follows:

"In reply to your inquiry of the 25 instant as to the circumstances under which the assessment of the personal tax of the Evening Star Newspaper Company was made, I have to state: The capital stock of this company was assessed in 1888 at $30,000. After examination and from the best information' I could get, I decided this was too low and assessed the company at $100,000 for 1889. In November past, when the bill was presented it was objected to by the company, and Mr. Frank B. Noyes, secretary of the company, called upon me and affirmed that it, the stock, was only worth fifty cents on the dollar; and that the correct amount to be taxed should be $50,000. On this affirmation made by such an authority I did not besitate one moment to make the correction, as Mr. Noyes had requested, and the company has paid the first half of the tax on this assessment.

"Of course the resity of the company, $22,816, is deducted as allowed by law.(?) I had no better source of information to base an assessment on than the statement of Mr. Noyes, secretary of the company, and if the assessment is 'much below its actual value' as you inform me, it is because I was intentionally misled by the secretary of the company.

ATTORNEY DAVIS OPENION. The question was referred to the office of th Attorney, and Assistant Attorney H. F. Davis rendered the follow ing opinion: OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY OF THE DISTRICT OF COLLINDIA,

WASHINGTON, February 1, 1889.
GENTLEMEN: I have considered the ter of the appraisement of the stock o, Exching Star Newspaper Company for current facal year, which has been referred to this office for opinion as to the power and duty of the Commissioners to the current fiscal year, which has been referred to this office for opinion as to the power and duty of the Commissioners to the premises.

The case appears to stand thus:

The company has a capital stock of the par value of $100,000, divided into 100 shares of the par value of $1,000 each. Under the existing tax law (19 Stat., 40), Sec. 1) the capital stock of every taxable corporation in the District is appraised in bulk by the Assessor. From this appraised value the value of the corporation's taxed real estate is deducted, and on the difference the corporation pays the tax prescribed, namely, one snd a half per cent.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1988, the capital stock of the Str Company was appraised and taxed at $50,000. In appraising it for the current fiscal year the Assessor placed the taxable valuation at $100,009. When the tax bill on this increased valuation was made by it, and, as the Assessor reports, one of its officers called upon him and estate that the stock was worth but fifty cents on the dollar, and that $50,000 represented the torner transition for taxation. As the stock is not on the market, and so is not quoted as other stocks, the Assessor, having then no better information, acquiesced in the return to the figures of last year. But he has learned that tertain of the stock is in the hands of an executrix, whose accounts pass through the Supreme Court of the District, and that from the last of these accounts twenty-two chares of the stock, appraising at $155,000, yielded in 1887 a net income of $35,500. Taking these figures as a basis, and allowing a act revenue of eight (3) per cent. the Assessor reports the total capital stock to be worth in reality something over $2,000.000, and that appraising the stock according to his rule (at two-thirds of its actual value), the valuation of the company's steck for taxation for this year should have been $1,380,391, instead of $50,000, and that appraising the stock according to his rule (at two-thirds of its actual value), the valuation of our p

"It is one of the infimities of our present tax law that corrections of valuations, when at all possible, must be made within a certain specified time, the result of which is that after the lapse of such time the power of correction is gone. As respects corporations the case is even worse, for the assessor being given the power of appraisement in the first instance, there is no provision whatever for correction of his valuation; and so an appraisement, when once made, must hold for a year. The evil of this condition is in general less than might appear at first glance, because as a rule the stock of corporations is either generally on the market and has a quoted price, affording the assessor a safe guide, or such stock come from time to time on the market, with like effect. But in the case of a company whose stock is held in few hands and is kept off the market the evil of the situation is unmitigated, as in this case, in which (assuming the facts to be as related) a wealthy corporation has, from its position so favorable to concealment of the real value of its stock, escaped payment of within a little of $19,000 as taxes for the "It is one of the infirmities of our present so favorable to concealment of the real value of its stock, escaped payment of within a little of $19,000 as taxes for the current year—a fact accidently exposed, and of which exposure the District enunot take advantage until the next fiscal year.

"To prevent a recurrence of what is so manifestly against the public interest new legislation must be had, in seeking which you may, of course, unhesitatingly count upon the cordial approval of all good citizens and the earnest support of the local press, so pre-eminent in its zeal for the public good.

"Respectfully,"
